Support the Camps for Kids with Health Challenges Fund

Managed by Community Health Charities

Carefree days. Fun activities. Bonding with friends. Camp is often a rite of passage for kids, with memories made that are cherished well into adulthood. But for many children with disabilities or life-limiting health challenges, the idea of attending camp is simply a dream.

Join us in supporting the critical work of organizations whose mission is to provide these special children with a fun, memorable camp experience in an environment without barriers. Every day, these camps make extraordinary things happen for kids who don't have a chance to do the ordinary.

For the children who attend and their families, it is often a life-changing experience. In fact, researchers have found that campers demonstrate significant positive changes – including increased confidence, self-esteem and social skills – just one month later. The Camps for Kids with Health Challenges Fund is designed to provide all children with the engaging camp experiences they deserve, regardless of their medical limitations.

Jadon's Story

Jadon has skeletal dysplasia, a condition that requires extra care and monitoring around the clock. This care is not available at most camps, but Camp Korey (the SeriousFun camp in Washington) is unique. The facility is accessible, so Jadon can get around on his scooter with ease. Jadon has made new friends with children facing similar obstacles. When Jadon spent his first night at Camp Korey, he told his parents he wished he could stay there forever.

That is how special Camp Korey is and how special it makes kids like Jadon feel. "Camp Korey is magical," Jadon's mom says. "I don't know that we can ever truly appreciate or understand all that the experience at Camp Korey means to these children and to parents like me."
